2	answer_body	character	Answer provided to question	0 (0.00%)		'How do you know what jobs best suits you in the medical field'. You should ask yourself this questions and also have this at the back of your mind; - what interests you ? - what are your strengths ? - what are your weaknesses - How much do I want to earn ? - where do I want to live ? - what environment do I want to work in ? - Is a job I enjoy right for me ? - what if I can't find a career that best suits me ? - Be patient and positive. All this would guide you through out your job search, all you need to do is to think about all this I've mentioned and after giving it a deep thought, you'll know what is right for you and what is not. Always be patient and positive. - Begin your journey by visiting your school's Guidance Counseling department. They are likely to have numerous resources that could be of great help to you. - Don't forget to explore your local community college. Even as a high school student, they might have resources that you can utilize. - Take advantage of the resource page for K-12 provided by the US Bureau of Labor and Statistics. Here's the link: https://www.bls.gov/k12/ - Princess's advice about the NCDA and consulting various professionals for resources, connections, and information is worth considering. Engaging in Informational Interviews can be an excellent strategy to help you identify the careers or jobs you might want to pursue. - Great recommendations above. Please also check out askamanager.org (https://www.askamanager.org/). It has some great resume advice. You can see examples and people's comments on it. - I recommend googling/checking out resources like "best places to work" online (for example → https://www.greatplacetowork.com/best-workplaces/technology/2022). - LinkedIn is also a great resource to find new job in the tech space :) - Glassdoor is great for reviews on culture, salary, etc. - levels.fyi is also a great resource for salaries <... truncated>	1 1 1 1	0.01 0.01 0.01 0.01
